DEAR GUESTS AND FRIENDS OF A&O,

the "A&O of the future" is in full swing! We are busily expanding our hotel network, true to our vision of providing affordable accommodation for anyone, anywhere in Europe! Fittingly, we will open our first A&O in the hip Scandinavian city of Copenhagen, satisfy our longing for summertime dolce vita with a hotel in Venice, and welcome the autumn with an A&O in Bremen as the perfect addition to the famous fountain to the Town Musicians.

We remain driven by our mission to provide reliable standards of accommodation at central locations, especially in otherwise expensive cities. But 2017 will see us place a particular focus on quality. This starts with the selection of top-quality materials for our new hotels and also includes the expansive renovation work we undertake. The colours and designs are chosen to reflect the latest interior design tastes of our guests and the hotel business as a whole. You can look forward to fashionably urban lobbies and stylish breakfast rooms! All of the feedback we have received from our guests concerning comfort and clever room features (for instance a tray to store spectacles, smartphones, tablets and jewellery in our bunkbeds) has been incorporated in our new room designs.

Everything will otherwise remain the same for our guests, of course: absolutely the best value for money! After all, A&O has grown big and strong on its fair and transparent prices. As a low-budget chain, we have enabled families with several children and large groups in particular to enjoy the experience of exploring big cities. We are guided by the principle of providing each guest with precisely the right 'product' – in other words, their preferred room category. This allows us to cater to all of our target groups, from lone travellers in hotel rooms, to large club excursions needing multi-bed accommodation. Quality means far more than just first impressions and a comfy bed, of course. Our teams in the individual houses receive continuous training to offer you the best possible service: from room cleaning to our free tickets service.

We are our guests! We decide as a team which food tastes best and what would satisfy the demands of our guests. The social trend is toward more vegetarian options and fewer calories. So we are delighted to change our group menu and the products we serve at our 24h bars.

A&O is launching its most sweeping quality drive in the area of high-speed Wi-Fi. Internet use is already complementary in every A&O. But our standards are high: we guarantee that each guest – even when the hotel is full – will be able to stream their favourite shows without any trouble at all. There aren't many providers up to this challenge. We've found one for you! This is precisely our philosophy for the future: to grow with the needs of our guests, always up-to-date with the latest technical innovations.

Yours,

- The twin steeples of the Baroque cathedral in Salzburg define the skyline of the old town like no other building. Designed by the Italian architect Solari, today's magnificent building uses clear structures and the luminous effects of the local marble; at the time, Solari had an immense influence on the architectural styles in Austria and south Germany.
We would be happy to organise one of the free group tours.
- Perfect for Salzburg novices: A Tour through the Old Town of Salzburg. You will visit the cathedral, the Bürgerstadt and the church district, and will listen to interesting tales about Hohensalzburg Fortress and the festival.
Prices from € 180.00 per group.
- A slide takes you down into the mountain that houses the world's oldest exhibition mine – the Hallein Salt Mine on the Dürrnberg plateau above Salzburg. Celts mined the 'white gold' here roughly 2,500 years ago, and the traces they left can be marvelled at to the present day.
Registered school groups from € 9.50.

A&O Munich Hackerbrücke is the place to go for central accommodation at an unbeatable price! Guests in rooms located higher up are rewarded with superb views of an Alpine panorama when the weather is good. All of this makes a drink on the roof terrace of the 5th floor bar all the more enjoyable – especially around sunset!

Besides by train (just one S-Bahn regional railway stop from central station), guests will find it easy to travel by car as well. And they will not have to hunt for a parking space in the city centre either, as the hotel provides its own safe facilities in the underground car park.

For years now, this accommodation has coped wonderfully with the hustle and bustle of the Oktoberfest season. But the 214 rooms and roughly 944 beds are booked out in no time! Many of the spacious rooms have a balcony and bathtub, offering great places to kick back and relax in the Bavarian capital.

The lavish all-you-can-eat breakfast and the late check-out (until 2 p.m.) are the most popular hotel services that international guests book additionally at reception.
